NSW Murray Valley supplementary extension

The NSW Office of Water today announced an extension to supplementary access in the NSW Murray Valley.

All general security access licence holders may divert water during this period of supplementary flow, as the general security allocation is less than 60 percent.

However, licence holders are reminded that all diversions count toward the annual usage limit of 100 percent of entitlement (excludes trades into accounts).

The river sections and periods of access to supplementary water are as follows:
